Part A: Tashiling Non-wood Forest Product Management and Marketing Plan

1. Background

Chungshing village is located in the south-east of Jigmecholing gewog and is 10 km away from the Gewog Administration Office. The village was formed with extension of family members in the gewog and today there are 9 households. They fully dependent on agriculture farming and forest resources since the time of immemorial for their livelihood.

The collection area of Tashiling NWFP management and marketing group is approximately 811 hacters within the altitudinal ranges of 1500-1600 masl. Out of this 376.73 ha falls in Biological Corridor (BC-3) and 3.88 ha inside Jigme Singye Wangchuck National Park.

The canopy cover of Tashiling NWFPs area overlapping with with different forest types are; open forest is 24.64 ha, moderately dense forest (40-59%) is 25.21 ha , and dense forest (60-69%) is 39.82 ha. Under the dense forest (70-100%) overlapped area of 670.77 ha 72.61 hacters is inaccessible with slope greater than 45 degree. Further, within it 57.16 ha is Private Registered land of the villagers. The boundary geocoordinates of the collection area is given in table 01.

Table 01: The boundary geo-coordinates of Tashiling NWFP collection area.

Sl no	Boundary name	Latitude	Longitude	Direction
1	Jigme Singye Wangchuck Ntional Park	27° 2'40.86"N	90°33'48.78"	East
2	Ranzapong	27° 1'50.30"N	90°34'4.34"E	South east
3	Rongri zampa	27° 1'8.39"N	90°33'34.41"E	South
4	Kuibrang	27° 2'7.83"N	90°32'33.63"E	West
5	Shamapong	27° 3'22.43"N	90°32'30.08"E	North

NWFP species grows in pocket/sporadic area. It is mostly dominated by Tsoe (Rubia cordifolia), Amala (Phyllanthus emblica), Pipla (Piper longum), Kauwla (Persea gamblei), Chipley (Pouzolzia spp), Harchur (Viscum articulatum) and Kucho (Thysanolaena latifolia). Bamboo shoot (Dendrocalamus hamiltonii) and Guli (Persea frutifera),

To ensure the sustainable management of above resources and to add conservation value to above resources, formation of NWFP marketing group is essential to hand over resources management right to community. The transfer of right is expected to enhance building of social institute for forest resources management and balance socio-economic development within the village and ensure sustainable management of NWFP resources through legalised harvesting.

2. Goal

Enhance social livelihood of the group through sustainable harvesting and marketing of NWFPs

3. General objectives

1. Sustainable management and utilization of NWFP resources.

4. Specific objectives

The specific objectives are as given below:

1. To promote group collection and marketing of NWFP from the proximity of settlements
2. To earn income from sale of NWFPs and reduce poverty
3. To ensure sustainable management of NWFP through introduction of regulated collection system.

5. Description of NWFP

Depending upon the types of forest stated in the back ground, different species of NWFPs are found in the area. However, in case of Chungshing village the main NWFPs found are; Sanja (Strobilanthus flaccidifolius), Tsoe (Rubia cordifolia), Amala (Phyllanthus emblica), Pipla (Piper mullesua), Guli (Persia fruitifera fruits), Shikarilara, Chipley (Pouzolzia spp), Kucho (Thysanolaena latifolia), Rushing (Ficus spp.) Labsi (Choerospondia axillaris), Kauwla (Persea gamblei), Harchur (Viscum ariculatum) LambuPipla (Piper longum), Pangra (Entada rheedii), Dendrcalamus himaltonii(choyabans), Recha (Plectocomis himalayana) and Jang leypan (Piper lingum). The Chungshing community have had collected it for domestic use and also for commercially purposes based on demand. The group have enlisted to collect 13 species of plant based NWFPs for commercial purpose as the location of the village on the periphery of the state reserved forest favours its collection. Table below shows on the detail description of NWFP species available for harvest by the group.
